Description

FLUX is a modern interpretation of the multi-functional shell chair. The FLUX wood leg chair provides a simple design formed with clean lines and subtle curves to form an ergonomic seat shape, creating flexibility of movement and comfort in a variety of different sitting positions - from upright to side on to kicking back. Ideal for higher education, co-working and office environments. FLUX is available with a variety of base styles, with and without arms. The wood leg version provides the ideal solution for a modern cafe or refectory. FLUX is available with an optional padded seat, or fully padded in a range of fabric or vinyl coverings. Please contact the office for further details.
